

At summit's end

King affirms solidarity

TAIF, Jan. 30 (SPA) — King Khaled said the third Islamic summit conference had laid down the basic steps which would taken at this important juncture of Islamic history and hoped the results will continue to illuminate the way ahead in the fulfilment of just Islamic goals.

Addressing the final session of the conference, King Khaled, whose speech was read by Crown Prince Fahd, said the principal result of the conference is the agreement that Islamic solidarity is the most ideal framework for the endeavor, the solution of our problems, achieving our goals and establishing our place in the international community.

"The Islamic nation has reaffirmed that liberation of Palestine from Zionist control, the restoration of the fixed rights of the Palestinian people, their return to their homeland, their right to self-determination and the creation of their independent state in Palestine under the leadership of the Palestine Liberation Organization, the only legitimate representative of the Palestine people, the liberation of the other occupied Arab lands, are all an Islamic responsibility which the Muslims must unite to realize," he said.

The King also urged the Islamic world to strive for the liberation of Afghanistan from Soviet domination and to help the Afghan people regain their independence and sovereignty in full.

He regretted the continuation of the Iraqi Iranian war which he described as a bleeding wound in the heart of the nation. He said he was hoping that the conference will come out with a solution of the problem, but the absence of Iran aborted the attempt. "In any case," he said, "the organization will pursue its efforts to solve the problem on the basis of Islamic arbitration and the holy Koran, respect of agreements and norms and the peaceful settlement of disputes."

He appealed to the Iranians to accept such goodwill initiatives to save the Muslims from further bloodshed and to preserve their resources and potentialities which can best be channeled into the development and progress of their countries.

King Khaled said the holding of the conference in Mecca and near the Kaaba gave it added significance and called on the Muslims to adhere to the tenets of their religion and benefit from its great power for their own welfare and that of the world at large.

Islam has dignified man and ensured the full human rights, he said, and he hoped that the next Islamic foreign ministers' conference will deal with the issue and produce the declaration of Islamic human rights that had been proposed for the summit. "I hope this document will define the rights and duties of every Muslim individual," he said.

He was grateful he said, for the success in drawing up a plan for economic cooperation among the Islamic states which will stimulate development in a well-integrated manner for the benefit of the people. "We shall mobilize material, human and other resources to ensure the success of the program, within a framework of a stable international order that is just and balanced," he said.

IDB concludes Upper Volta contract

JEDDAH, Jan. 30 (SPA) — The Jeddah-based Islamic Development Bank signed an agreement with Upper Volta under which the bank will raise 20 per cent of a gold mine project's capital in the south western region of the Western African country.

The IDB's participation in the project is estimated at $4 million. The mine's annual output is estimated at 1,200 kilograms of gold. The bank had granted Upper Volta two loans in the past for financing foreign operations. The loans, totaling to 8.65 million Islamic Dinars ($11.2 million), involved importing cement and other construction materials. The IDB is also participating in other projects in Upper Volta.

The Islamic bank's capital was increased by the third Islamic Summit conference that ended Wednesday night to expand its activities in promoting trade among Islamic countries. More than $3 billion was jointly contributed by Saudi Arabian, the UAE, Kuwait and Qatar.

Local volleyball team chosen

RIYADH, Jan. 30 (SPA) — The final selection of the Saudi Arabian national volleyball team that will participate in the Volleyball World Cup, to be held in Hong Kong March 10 to 24, was approved by the Executive Bureau of the Saudi Arabian Volleyball Union.

In a meeting Wednesday night, the bureau agreed to take part in the Asian Volleyball Federation's Board meetings, also in Hong Kong, March 25 and 26. The bureau also decided to attend a meeting of secretaries of Arab volleyball unions. The two-day meeting will open in Bahrain on Wednesday.

The bureau approved a recommendation of the Information Committee of the Kingdom's volleyball union to publish a documentary book on volleyball in the Kingdom, since its beginning. The bureau also decided to provide training films on volleyball, in addition to preparing a pictorial archive on the union's activities.

The bureau adopted a new method for organizing this year's national volleyball championship. The new system secures the participation of 10 First Division teams and eight Second Division provincial champions in addition to the 10 premier teams.

The premier, first and second division teams will be divided into two groups. The championship will progress in a knock-out system, and leaders of the groups are to meet for the final match. The championships will begin April 6 and the final game will be on May 14, it was decided.

The bureau also adopted a similar system for the First Division and junior teams' championships. Teams participating in the Junior championship that begins March 11 will be divided into two groups. The final match between the first position holders of the groups will be held March 22, according to the bureau statement. Group A will comprise the Central, Qasim Eastern and Juf Regions, while the Western, Southern, Medina and Hail Regions form Group B.

COMMENT

By Abdel Ghani Qafli
Al Bilad

When the beginnings are supported by the elements of a firm faith and belief, the end is invariably associated with success. The third Islamic conference would not have achieved an outstanding success in the absence of Islamic unanimity at the top level. The leaders were determined to produce positive results to define a new course for the future of the Islamic world and its new generations.

Our battle with our enemies would never come to an end unless we return to our faith, its teachings and principles. King Khaled has stressed in his recent address that the Islamic teachings provide the correct path for the nation to be able to confront all problems and challenges.

The success of the Mecca summit in tackling the Islamic issues and finding suitable solutions confirms that, Muslim leaders' identical views on the issues guided their way to success. Saudi Arabia and other Islamic states have, in fact, exerted stupendous efforts in bringing the conference to success. Their efforts symbolized the spirit of unity and solidarity as well as their joint action on a united Islamic strategy, whose aim is to settle the Palestine issue on a just basis, to liberate Jerusalem from the Zionist occupation, to compel to Soviet Union to withdraw its invading forces from Afghanistan and to help Muslims everywhere and at all times.

New Jeddah airport prepares countdown

By Javid Hassan

JEDDAH, Jan. 30 — The King Abdul Aziz International Airport is all set for April when the 105 sq. km complex will be open to air traffic, according to airport officials.

from the city provided a glimpse of the hectic construction activity that is going on. Nearly 11,000 workers from 35 countries are toiling day and night to complete the SR 15 billion project, the first phase of which is almost ready.

This includes two commercial airline terminals, the Haj terminal (which will be completed in time for this year's Haj season), a royal pavilion for use by the King, overhaul hangar, air cargo terminal, control tower, desalination plant and other support facilities.

Two parallel runways, one 3,300 meters (10,890 feet) and the other 3,800 meters (12,540 feet) long, have been completed. A third runway, for use by the Royal Saudi Air Force, is being designed. These will accommodate some 44 aircraft, ranging from the Boeing 747 to the Boeing 737.

Extensive parking facilities have been provided at the airport, said to be twice as big as New York's Manhattan island. The new Jeddah facility will replace the much smaller airport in the city, currently served by 41 airlines, including Saudia, the national flag carrier of the Kingdom.

Projections for the new airport envisage traffic of 8.6 million passengers by 1985 and 10 million by 2000. The south and north terminals, already constructed, have been equipped to handle 3,600 and 2,500 passengers per hour, respectively. The south terminal, which will be used by Saudia, consists of curved roofs, a spacious courtyard and a reflecting pool. A mosque has also been built in one wing of the building whose walls and floors are faced with Italian marble. The north terminal is similar in design to the south terminal, though smaller in size. It is meant for the use of other international airlines.

Everything in the airport is automatic, including the fire protection system.

An overhead self-regulating system discharges water from a one-million gallon tank. This is backed up by sprinkler and foam systems.

The new airport boasts a number of superlatives to its credit. For instance, it has the largest airfreight handling structure in the Middle East, with a capacity for 150,000 metric tons of freight a year. The air cargo terminal will be able to accommodate seven Boeing 747 jet freighters on its apron and a groundside parking capacity for 250 trucks and 350 automobiles.

Another impressive structure is the royal reception pavilion for the exclusive use of King Khaled and his guests, including visiting dignitaries. With its roof covered with copper and walls with white marble from Greece, it is a self-contained terminal facility.

It has a 10,000 square meter parade ground alongside which aircraft will park to discharge passengers. Besides the reception hall and two conference rooms, the royal pavilion is also equipped with a press room for the use of 100 newsmen.

The Haj terminal, which spreads over an area of 1.5 sq. km, is another attraction of the airport. Consisting of two identical buildings, each with a complex of five modules, it can accommodate 80,000 pilgrims during the peak Haj period.

It will be topped by the world's largest fabric roof (510 sq. meters or 5,000 sq. ft.) of fibreglass material coated with teflon to help reflect heat, and control the temperature inside. The terminal is said to be larger than the U.S. Defense Department's Pentagon, the world's largest office building.

A novel feature of the fibreglass fabric roof will be its ability to permit shadowless natural light to filter through, eliminating the need for daytime lighting. At night spotlights will shine directly on the fabric roof, creating a moonlight effect underneath. Travelers from the aircraft will thus enjoy a breathtaking spectacle of a soft, golden glow.

Placement of the terminal roof began last year. However, a portion of the terminal complex will be ready by September.

Meanwhile, extensive landscaping is in full swing around the airport as part of an ecological plan to check soil erosion. Some 72,000 trees and more than 2.5 million other plants are being grown around the airport to create a welcoming ambience for the Hajis.

For Kingdom's participation

Yemen projects to be considered

TAIF, Jan. 30 (SPA) — The next meeting of the Saudi Arabian Yemeni coordination council will be held in Sanaa, Yemen Arab Republic in March, officials announced here Friday.

The announcement was made following a meeting between Defense Minister Prince Sultan ibn Abdul Aziz and the Foreign Minister of Yemen Ali Lutf Al Thawri who was a member of his country's delegation to the third Islamic summit conference here, Prince Sultan represents the Kingdom at these meetings which discuss ways and means of cooperation for the development of Yemen.

The council was set up to draw up plans for projects that the Kingdom can participate in that country. They include highways, schools, large and small hospitals, mosques and artesian wells. The meetings take place periodically either in Riyadh or in Sanaa under Prince Sultan. The scheduled meeting will be the sixth so far.

U.S. warns Soviets to keep off Gulf

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (Agencies) — Gen. David Jones, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, has warned the Soviet Union against taking military action in the Gulf, saying the move would open a wider conflict. "The Soviets must be convinced that an infringement on our vital interests in Southwest Asia would trigger a confrontation with the United States that would not be confined to that region," Gen. Jones said in his annual report to Congress Wednesday.

Jones also called on U.S. allies to work with Washington to develop a "broad global strategy" against any Soviet threat in the Gulf region, calling insufficient current defense efforts by some members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and Japan.

"The U.S. cannot and should not carry the sole burden" for defending the Gulf region, he said.

In the meantime, Egypt's military chief of staff repeated his warning Wednesday that the Soviet Union was "missing" arms in the Middle East, the official Middie East News Agency reported from Cairo.

Speaking to troops at central army headquarters, Gen. Abdul-Halim Abu Ghazala reiterated remarks he made in an interview with the agency two weeks ago, that the Soviet Union aimed at encircling the Middle East oil fields from Afghanistan in the east to Libya on the Mediterranean.

"Libya cannot absorb all the Russian arms it has," the agency quoted him as saying, "and the danger is that these arms represent an emergency warehouse for the Soviet Union to use when it feels necessary."

Sharon vows to finance new settlements

TEL AVIV, Jan. 30 (Agencies) — Israeli Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon has said he was going ahead with a controversial plan to finance more Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank. The plan is to compensate contractors who build the settlements by giving them choice real estate plots in Israel proper instead of paying them money which the state can ill-afford.

Repeating to six parliamentary motions on the land-swap plan Wednesday, Sharon accused his critics in the opposition Labor Party of plotting the surrender of the West Bank to Arab sovereignty. "We are offering land in return for homes," said Sharon, "and you are offering the land of Israel in return for pipe dreams."

Sharon's Likud faction says it has built 60 of some 80 settlements in the West Bank. The rest were built by the Labor Party when it was in power.

Sharon said the settlements were achieving Likud's aim of making it impossible for any future Israeli government to give the zone to the Arabs.

Meanwhile, three Jewish families have been convinced by soldiers to leave a house they had taken over in the occupied Arab town of Hebron, although they had earlier vowed to resist any eviction efforts. Eyewitnesses said Thursday the settlers went quietly after a large military force surrounded the building and an officer convinced them to leave.

BRIEFS

CAIRO, (AP) — The joint Israeli-Egyptian military committee has ended five days of talks here on arrangements for the last stage of the Israeli pullout from Sinai, the official Middle East News Agency reported. Naval Gen. Mohsen Hamadi, who headed the Egyptian side, said Thursday that Egypt denied committing any violations of the terms governing the military presence it may maintain in Sinai.

BEIRUT, (AP) — A nine-man British House of Commons delegation flew here from London Thursday to begin a Middle East tour at the invitation of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

CAIRO, (AP) — Israel abruptly moved its exhibit Friday after the opening day of the Cairo Book Fair was marred by tensions when the Israelis found themselves neighbors with the Palestinian exhibit. Egyptian publishers who shared the first hall with the Israelis said the move was the result of a joint protest they presented to book fair organizers.

TEL AVIV, (AP) — Burglars broke into Tel Aviv's Haaretz Museum during the night and stole artifacts valued at more than $3 million, a police spokesman said.

Four extremists given 36 years' sentences in Turkey

ISTANBUL, Jan. 30 (AP) — A martial law court here sentenced four right-wing terrorists to 36 years each in prison after convicting them on charges of premeditated murder of their leftist opponents.

The military prosecutor said the four defendants belonged to the now-defunct extreme Nationalist Action Party of retired Col. Alpaslan Turkes. The military tribunal also meted out prison terms from one year up to 28 years to seven other members of the youth branch of the party in Istanbul. Meanwhile, martial law authorities in Izmir announced the arrest of 20 suspected leftist terrorists, including two women.

Niger halts uranium to Libya

Chad president visits Tripoli

BEIRUT, Jan. 30 (Agencies) — Chadian resident Goukouni Oueddei is in Tripoli, Libya on his third visit in less than a month, the Kuwait News Agency reported Friday. The agency said in a dispatch from Tripoli, Oueddei arrived Thursday from a four-day summit conference of Islamic countries in Saudi Arabia.

The agency did not say how long Oueddei could stay in Tripoli. His agreement with Libyan leader Col. Muammar Qaddafi to work for a full unity of the countries sparked diverse reactions in Africa and France.

In a separate development, Niger has announced that it was halting uranium sales to Libya following the freezing of relations between the two countries.

Relations between Niger and Libya have deteriorated badly since Libya's intervention in the civil war in Chad. Earlier this month, Niger expelled Libyan diplomats after the Libyan embassy in Niamey was turned into a people's bureau.

Minister of Mines Mounkaila Tarouna confirmed reports that Libya bought 500 tons of uranium from Niger last year.

From Mediterranean to Dead Sea

Jews promise aid to canal plan

TEL AVIV, Jan. 30 (AP) — Israel's plan to build a canal from the Mediterranean to the Dead Sea has received a boost when wealthy foreign Jews pledged an initial investment of $100 million in the hydroelectric power project.

Despite objections from Jordan, which was the eastern shore of the Dead sea, the Israeli government gave its conditional approval for the canal plan last August. The project faces an additional political problem because its Mediterranean inlet is planned for the southern end of the occupied Gaza Strip — out in Israel proper.

A group of foreign investors in Israel bonds who toured the canal route pledged Thursday to raise $100 million, bonds spokesman said. The 125 bonds-buyers personally pledged $14 million to the spot.

They were responding to a plea from Energy Minister Yitzhak Modai who took them to the power plant site in the Judean desert and declared that work could start in three months if $100 million was available. The project is expected to cost $700-800 million and take almost 10 years to complete.

Will Reagan opt for 'quiet diplomacy'?

By Robert C. Toth and George Skelton

WASHINGTON —

As Ronald Reagan enters the second week of his presidency, administration policy planning officials are searching for ways to warn potential terrorists that the United States will never again allow its citizens to be used in an episode like the Iran hostage crisis. No sooner had Reagan finished taking the oath of office on Jan. 20 than he announced a series of symbolic actions, to convey a sense of new directions on the economic front. Similarly, public anger over Iran's seizure of the 52 Americans gives Reagan a dramatic opportunity to speak out decisively on this most emotional foreign issue facing his embryonic administration.

But even as he welcomed the ex-hostages and aides pondered the future of U.S. relations with Iran, the Reagan White House has begun to recognize the limitations of power and the counter-weighting factors that complicate the task of making a tough new policy. As Vice President George Bush acknowledged recently, restoring prosperity at home and peace-through-strength abroad "seemed a little easier in the campaign, I must say."

Echoing that, a White House aide said that he doubted Reagan would be prepared to lay out a definitive new U.S. policy toward terrorism very soon. "It takes more than a week in office to formulate a new doctrine," the administration official explained. "All the ramifications must be thought out."

Yet Reagan, as did so many of his predecessors, may find himself driven to enunciate a new policy earlier than he wishes in order to satisfy public expectations roused by his campaign rhetoric or else suffer a premature end to the honeymoon that traditionally follows inauguration.

Reagan is certain to be questioned on the issue at his first press conference as will his Secretary of State, Alexander Haig. At least two men who are expected to be on Haig's policy planning staff at the State Department have been seeking ways to prevent any repetition of the Iranian hostage seizure and apparent U.S. impotence to do anything about it, officials said.

The two are Paul Wolfowitz, until recently a deputy assistant secretary of defense in the Carter administration, and Kenneth Edelman, described as a Reagan transition team member at the State Department. Wolfowitz is reportedly in line to be director of policy planning at the department despite conservative Republican criticism that he is not enough in tune with Reagan ideologically.

Neither Wolfowitz nor Edelman has direct experience in international affairs, however, and because neither has been formally appointed to administration jobs yet, they have had limited access to department officials who could contribute ideas or background information to formulation of doctrine.

At least two concepts are known to be under discussion within the government to make governments think twice before acting as terrorists to seize Americans. And a military force under the Joint Chiefs of Staff has been created in the wake of the failed U.S. raid to free the hostages, that would be prepared to take physical action should other measures fail to deter.

The first proposal is to amend the international rules and regulations that govern conduct between nations, the so-called Vienna Conventions on Diplomatic and Consular Relations, so as to obligate all signatories to break relations with any government found guilty of terrorist acts by the World Court of Justice at The Hague, Netherlands.

The conventions, which codify centuries of traditions in diplomatic relations, now pledge the signatory states to respect the inviolability of diplomatic personnel and foreign embassy compounds. But the documents, which were last amended about 20 years ago, have no enforcing mechanism. Iran had signed the treaties. There was no punishment for violating them, however, when Iran was found guilty by the World Court last year of violating the conventions.

A parallel move would be to amend the U.N. Charter to require expulsion of any nation that violates the Vienna Conventions. The second major proposal being discussed within the State Department would have the president publicly declare as formal policy that the taking of U.S. citizens as hostages by a foreign government would be tantamount to an act of war.

But the new president, despite his campaign attacks on Carter for being weak and indecisive in foreign affairs, has also spoken of the value of "quiet diplomacy" and may now find it preferable to hard-line pronouncements that telegraph details of the U.S. capacity to react to terrorists.

During the campaign Reagan several times cautioned against burling ultimatums without the ability to back them up. And last week, a White House official said Reagan has already shown his preference for quiet diplomacy and reaped fruits from that approach. The official said that Reagan, in return for welcoming South Korean President Chun Doo Hwan here Feb. 2, has obtained Seoul's agreement to spare the life of Chun's arch political rival, Kim Dae Jung, and to end martial law in the country. Letters to the editor

Sir,
The Muslim world owes too much to Saudi rulers who have served the Islamic cause so much that volumes of books are required to record their achievements. At this time I am concerned with the Islamic Summit Conference, the credit of which goes directly to His Majesty King Khalid and Crown Prince Fahd because it was the late King Abdul Aziz under whose call an Islamic summit conference was held at the Holy Mecca in the year 1926. Again it was the late King Faisal whose love to Islam and great statesmanship enabled Muslim heads of state to hold the first full fledged Islamic Summit Conference at Rahat in 1969 and afterward at Lahore.
Thus the history of Islamic Summit Conference (taking the recent past) goes back to 1926 when the late King Abdul Aziz convened a conference of Muslim heads of state at Mecca which proved a great success toward a commendable start for forging the Muslim unity all over the Muslim world. So the late King Abdul Aziz well deserves to be called founder and pioneer of holding the Islamic Summit Conference. We note that regular convening of the Islamic Summit Conference could not be continued due to some other compelling factors but the concept and cause introduced by King Abdul Aziz was never forgotten and task of its revival was taken by his son the late King Faisal.

Encouraged by the illegal occupation of Muslim lands as the outcome of 1967 Mideast war which they fought with the all-out help of a superpower, in August 1969, Jews became bold enough to desecrate the Al-Aqsa Mosque — which is the third holiest place and the first Kaaba of Muslims.
The Islamic Summit Conference in September 1969 at Rabat was convened with the main object to bolster Muslim unity and to plan a common strategy to free the occupied Muslim lands and holy places and foil Israel's expansionist aims.
The Second Islamic Summit Conference held at Lahore proved even greater success which among other achievements, set a shining example of Muslim brotherhood by bringing two separated brothers (Bangladesh and Pakistan) together again and adopted common strategy on all other problems confronting the Muslim world.
Now the Third Islamic Summit Conference in Mecca proves the biggest success to evolve a common strategy in every field of life and adopts ways and means to counter Zionists and other evil forces attacks on Muslim lands and heritages consequently, spearheading the movements to free the Muslim occupied lands and holy places.

Dear sir,
I am an avid reader of your widely circulated and renowned newspaper throughout the Kingdom. Ever since I arrived in this Holy Islamic land, I always make it a point not to miss reading the paper even though I have to borrow it sometimes from a friend who is a regular subscriber. The foreign news is very interesting as it covers almost the four corners of the globe.
I am glad to inform you also, that I just wrote, to extend my commendation and appreciation, but not to contribute any commentary. In addition, I would like to ask you a favor. If you would not mind, please furnish me the mailing address to His Majesty the beloved King Khalid, because I wish to extend to him my appreciation for his humanitarian acts toward the underdeveloped nations.

POSITIVE RESULTS

One of the issues remaining as the Islamic Summit concluded its business is that of the mediation between Iraq and Iran in their costly and prolonged conflict. Such a step would need, before being taken, some clear sign from Iran of readiness to talk. Tehran, however, has remained obstinately silent, despite the report that the summit was ready to send a negotiating team composed of countries and bodies in whose friendliness Iran can have little doubt. If anyone can be depended on to obtain and convey the Iranian point of view, it is the heads of state of Syria, Algeria and Pakistan, as well as Yasser Arafat of the PLO. As it is, all will have to wait until such time as Iran wants to talk. Iraq, for its part, has already declared its acceptance of the Islamic mediation.
One of the positive signs issuing from the summit was the speed with which the call for self-reliance in matters of security is being put to implementation. The call, issued by both King Khalid and Prince Fahd, rejected all foreign interference, under whatever pretext, in the affairs of the Islamic world as a whole and of the Gulf area in particular and will be taken up at the Gulf states' meeting, due to convene in Riyadh on the fourth of the coming month. The Gulf heads of state will also begin the first steps in implementing the economic and social programs which were part of the Taif Summit's business.
On the summit's most important issue, that of Jerusalem and Palestine, the Islamic world affirmed its view of the PLO as the sole representative of the Palestinian people, as well as of the necessity for a total Israeli withdrawal from all the territories occupied by force of arms — firstly and foremost Jerusalem. The summit also upheld the right of the Palestinian people to self-determination, specifically their right to an independent state on their own soil.
On the second most important point on the agenda, that of Afghanistan, the summit was unequivocal in rejecting the Soviet military presence and upholding the right of the people of that suffering country to determine their own destiny without foreign interference.
President Zia ul-Haq of Pakistan has been actively consulting with other Islamic leaders in search of a formula which will ensure a solution to the crisis.

Saudi Arabian Press Review

The weekend newspapers headlined the closing session of the third Islamic summit conference at Taif. They highlighted the summit's commitment to the liberation of Jerusalem and a firm resolve to establish peace and cordiality among the people. They also gave prominence to Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's reaffirmation that peace opportunity with Iran was still available, and Lebanese President Elias Sarkis' warning against the crisis in Lebanon.
Newspapers frontpaged Crown Prince Fahd's closing speech before the summit, in which he appealed to Iraq and Iran on behalf of the conference to halt the war. Jordanian King Hussein's statement that the summit has consolidated the pillars of joint Islamic action found front-page coverage in Okaz, while Al-Yom frontpaged PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat's warning against possible foreign intervention in the Iraq-Iran war.
Newspaper editorials reiterated that the Mecca Declaration would provide a beginning for the present and future action of the Islamic nation. They said the summit has proved the Islamic world is capable of adopting resolutions and putting them into practice. Al-Jazirah observed that an end to the meetings of the third summit heralds the beginning of responsibilities and obligations on the Islamic states. It said the obstacles confronted by the Islamic world pose a challenge to the Islamic will and determination that was so distinct in the solidarity of Muslim leaders. The paper added that the salient point is not as much the adoption of resolutions as it is to demonstrate the will to enforce those resolutions.

In an editorial, Okaz noted that the closing statement of the summit has made it quite clear that the strength of the resolutions lies in the firm base from which they have derived their inspiration. It added that the comprehensive statement of the conference achieves the aspirations pinned on Muslim leaders in respect of occupied Palestine and the restoration of Palestinian rights as well as the sacred places in the occupied territory. The paper said further that the summit's demand for the Soviet withdrawal from Afghanistan defines the Islamic stance on the issue, which would help the international community to strive seriously for a solution to this problem.
Al-Jazirah described the closing statement as a "document of the ages," saying it is the outcome of efforts of the participating leaders. It added that the world would know at a certain stage how pledges and documents are safeguarded and international laws respected among the Muslims in their relations with each other and with other countries of the world. The paper reiterated that the Islamic awakening is not directed against anyone, but it is a call of righteousness to build a new Islamic society for the benefit of all mankind. It bled the view that the Mecca summit would usher in a new era in the Islamic society enabling Muslims to live an honorable and dignified life.
Al-Madina said it was a matter of joy for every Muslim to see the summit achieve favorable results and bring about stronger cooperation and understanding among the Muslims of the world. It added that the new standpoint of Islamic action will be based on economic and development activities, in the wake of the Kingdom's proposal on the establishment of a $3-billion Fund for Islamic Development. The paper expressed satisfaction that the summit successfully isolated side differences from its agenda and enabled Muslim leaders to tackle the real problems of the Islamic nation.

Discussing the same subject, Al-Yom noted that the summit came up to the level of responsibilities and drafted distinct and commendable outlines for the new strategy of the Islamic nation. It said that Muslims all over the world bailed the declaration as it reflected the will and determination to give a strong confrontation to the enemies. It was a matter of satisfaction, it said, that the conference did not ignore any problem placed on its agenda, but adopted resolutions in harmony with the capabilities of the Islamic world.
Al-Riyadh described the summit as an historic turning point in the life of the Islamic nation, as it refused to accept the obliteration of Islamic entity by any other principle. The paper reaffirmed that the Islamic heritage is capable of compensating every alien principle, as it possesses a system of advisory council to liquidate all marginal issues. Endorsing the summit's stress on the holy war (Jihad), the paper said this war must first start from the self, and then proceed on to develop Islamic potentialities for its sake.

The Islamic nation's progress depends on its unity and solidarity. Okaz

Communist China's dream still a far cry

By Michael Parks

BEIJING (LAT) — After more than three decades in power, Red China's Communist Party is coming to the realization that its misadventures, particularly the Cultural Revolution, have greatly eroded its popular support and threaten its ability to govern effectively. To reverse its past achievements, the party faces, by its own assessment, the serious task of restoring its ability to govern effectively. To reverse its past achievements, the party faces, by its own assessment, the serious task of restoring its ability to govern effectively.

of Chinese officials and in the country's newspapers and journals. The new Shanghai Communist Party leader, for example, said almost casually while restating a longtime party policy that it would continue "as long as the Communist Party survives."

Was it possible, people immediately asked, that the party would not survive? The Communist Party newspaper People's Daily admitted in a front-page editorial not long ago that the party had "substituted itself for the government's and the country 'suffered greatly because of this,' with 'no substantial improvement in living standards' for many since the Communists came to power in 1949.

Not all party leaders accept Hu's assessment, though it has the strong backing of Deng. "Our party center is leading this liberation of the mind," an article on the "crisis of faith" said last month, calling for a nationwide critical self-appraisal. "But it is meeting serious resistance from people who maintain the modern superstition (of old Maoist concepts) and label the discussion ... a hauling down of the (Maoist) banner. Deng Xiaoping is resolutely dealing with this resistance and is supporting this discussion. There are people who are radically opposed to (China's course over the past two years) and enemies will use every opportunity to make trouble."

party newspaper People's Daily said, summing up a recent party conference reviewing ideological work. "We are much indebted to the people for their suffering from hardships in their lives in the past 20 years. We should pay more attention to solving their ideological problems by helping them solve their practical difficulties."

Already in charge of the party's day-to-day work, Hu would like to return it to the much idealized vigor of the 1930s and 1940s when it was fighting alternately with the Chinese nationalist government and the Japanese army. But even he has acknowledged that circumstances may have changed too much for that.

Paris city council goes on spending spree

By Paul Webster

PARIS, (ONS) — A massive spending program by Paris City Council to buy nearly all big property that comes on to the market in the capital is causing angry reaction among real estate agents, who accuse Gaullist Mayor, Jacques Chirac of socialist policies.

The council has put aside about $85 million of its annual budget to buy up apartment blocks and building sites to increase its power as the city's biggest landowner and stop speculation by private financial institutions.

of first refusal in every case. Because of the low price offered, 15 of the properties were withdrawn from sale.

Estate agents are surprised at Chirac's policy because his party has been long associated with big business and a free market. However, in the last few months Chirac has developed a much closer arrangement with the Communist and Socialist opposition and their attacks on speculation.

Making S. African hotels accessible to blacks

By Patrick Lawrence

JOHANNESBURG, (ONS) — South African hoteliers and restaurateurs have generally welcomed the proposed legislation admitting blacks to their premises at the owners' discretion, but popular white reaction has been far less positive, varying from resignation through apprehension to hostility.

President of the Federated Hotel Associations Arnold Brock voiced the feelings of most owners and managers when he said: "It has always been our viewpoint that the discretion as to who should be a guest should be left to the hotelier. For that reason we are pleased about the proposed law."

The white hotelier recalled that a black boteler had been bounded out by white intransigence. He predicted: "I know my regulars. It simply will not work at all. The people are going to fight."

These were reactions in less expensive hotels in Johannesburg. In the more expensive "international hotels" — which already have permission to admit black guests — greater tolerance was evident. White reaction in less sophisticated rural areas, however, is likely to be more hostile.

tute of Race Relations has designed a logo for multi-racial establishments to display to avoid unnecessary embarrassment.

The pending legislation is one of several moves in recent years to eliminate 'petty apartheid.' It was preceded by the relaxation and, in some cases, abolition of segregated sport and the acceptance of black diplomats from the United States, Malawi and South Africa's 'independent homelands.'

Occupation of Kampuchea

Vietnam offers partial pullout

BANGKOK, Jan. 30 (Agencies) — Vietnam and its Indochinese allies have called for a meeting with non-Communist southeast Asian countries in the latest diplomatic maneuver over disputes centering on the Vietnamese military occupation of Kampuchea, Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea, at the end of a two-day foreign ministers' meeting in Ho Chi Minh City Thursday, also offered a partial withdrawal of Vietnamese troops from Kampuchea if Thailand stopped adding anti-government guerrillas.

There was no immediate official reaction from Thailand and its four partners in the non-Communist Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), and Thai officials said there would first have to be consultations among members. ASEAN comprises

Top police official detained in Assam

NEW DELHI, Jan. 30 (AP) — A top police official in the northeastern state of Assam was arrested Thursday under the national preventive detention law, the United News of India reported. UNI said that deputy inspector general Bhattacharyya was arrested at his home. It did not mention if he was charged with any offense.

A police spokesman said in Gauhati, 500 kilometers northeast of Calcutta, that Bhattacharyya was transferred to special security force last year but had not joined his new job "on health grounds." State officials said that Bhattacharyya had openly favored a 15-month student-led agitation against alleged aliens in Assam which has crippled the local administration and economy.

Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Singapore and Thailand. Thai sources expressed doubt that the proposals would prove acceptable, but said it would be necessary to have a deeper look at them.

Sources here said that one of the problems about a conference between the Indochinese countries and ASEAN, leading to a "treaty on peace and stability in southeast Asia," was the fact that it would mean the elevation of Indochina into a recognized bloc. ASEAN does not recognize the Vietnamese-backed government of President Heng Samrin in Kampuchea, let alone its legitimacy as a member of a Vietnamese-dominated Indochina.

The Indochinese countries said the complete withdrawal of Vietnamese troops from Kampuchea would be considered "when the threat from China no longer exists". But it added that an unspecified number of troops would be pulled out immediately if Thailand ceased making territory available to anti-government guerrillas, stopped giving them weapons and food and put them in camps far from the border.

Thailand has denied aiding guerrillas — either those loyal to the ousted pro-Peking Khmer Rouge regime or non-Communist Khmer forces who live in encampments along the Thai-Kampuchean border. Thai sources said Thailand and its partners had not, in any event, been asking for a partial withdrawal.

Western diplomats in Bangkok saw the Indochinese proposals as a bid to take the diplomatic offensive before next month's nonaligned meeting in India and to pre-empt renewed calls for an international conference on Kampuchea — an ASEAN proposal, passed by the United Nations but flatly rejected by Vietnam. They were also made on the eve of Chinese premier Zhao Ziyang's visit to Thailand for talks with Thai leaders.

China's relations with Vietnam deteriorated after the Vietnamese-led offensive to topple the Khmer Rouge government two years ago. China attacked Vietnam soon afterwards and has been backing Khmer Rouge guerrillas in their struggle against the estimated 200,000 Vietnamese troops in Kampuchea. The Indochinese foreign ministers referred to China's "hostile policy" in the region, but nevertheless called for bilateral treaties of peaceful coexistence with Peking.

The more radical members in the non-aligned camp consider as too moderate the draft for a final resolution India has been preparing for the nonaligned foreign ministers' meeting that is to take place next Feb. 9 to 12 in New Delhi, according to diplomatic sources in Havana.

The political section of the Indian draft, these sources pointed out, merely lists the questions of Afghanistan, Namibia, South Africa, Palestine and southeast Asia without making any reference to "imperialism," and leaving out issues such as Latin America and the western Sahara altogether. These omissions have been puzzling to the countries concerned, all the more so, it was reported, because there was no mention either of the efforts deployed by Cuban President Fidel Castro, the current chairman of the non-aligned movement, at finding solutions to the Afghan problem and the conflict between Iraq and Iran.

Countries critical of the draft were said to acknowledge India's support of the principles and objectives embodied in the final Havana declaration of 1979. They were objecting however to the absence of more specific language, and of references to issues as burning as the situation in El Salvador, as one example.

Marcos to stand for elections in new setup

MANILA, Jan. 30 (Agencies) — The first Philippine presidential election in 12 years is likely to be held in May or June this year under a proposal to be put forward by the majority New Society Party (KBL) in the interim national assembly. A KBL caucus at the presidential palace Thursday agreed on a modified parliamentary system, which has been compared to the French model, giving the president more powers than the prime minister, assembly spokesman Jose Tombokon said.

Under the KBL proposal the president will be elected for a six-year term and will appoint a prime minister from among the regional representatives in the national assembly.

Elections for a regular assembly are scheduled in 1984. The KBL threw out an earlier proposal for the election of a "transitory" president to exercise both presidential and prime ministerial functions until a regular national assembly is convened, which was rejected by the opposition.

Marcos later announced his decision to run for re-election under the revised parliamentary system. There was no immediate indication Thursday whether he would be opposed in the presidential vote.

Marcos told the meeting of more than 160 KBL members that they must inform their countrymen of the issues before them "even if I will be the only candidate."

Tombokon said the interim assembly, which is now considering amendments to the constitution, will give top priority to the KBL proposal and it would be submitted for public approval in a plebiscite, possibly by April. Presidential elections were expected to follow soon afterwards.

The caucus appointed a seven-man committee under Justice Minister Richard Puno to draft the proposal, and minister of State for Foreign Relations Emmanuel Pelaez said most KBL members favored giving President Ferdinand Marcos authority to spell out the new powers of the president. Marcos, who was elected for his second presidential term in 1969, declared martial law in 1972, a year before the election was due. He lifted martial law Jan. 17.

An Indo-Mexican economic cooperation agreement is likely to be signed this year and protocol accords on science, food technology and agricultural research also were announced. Portillo said his visit had "strengthened" relations between the two countries. A joint communique issued Thursday said India and Mexico supported the "independence, sovereignty, territorial integrity and nonaligned status" of Afghanistan, where some 85,000 Soviet troops have been stationed for more than one year. They also expressed opposition to "the instigation of violence from outside with a view to achieving influence or predominance."

Botha orders April poll

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 30 (Agencies) — South African Prime Minister Pieter Botha has called an early general election, apparently in the hope of strengthening his position within the ruling National Party. Hardline rightwingers in the party have opposed his proposals to relax South Africa's apartheid (racial segregation) laws and speculation had been intense that Botha wanted to be returned to power in his own right. He inherited the prime minister's job from the disgraced John Vorster in late 1978.

Botha, delivering the first major government speech since parliament formally opened last Friday, announced the April 29 election shortly after saying that a senior Soviet intelligence officer had been arrested in the country last year. Opposition leader Frederik Van Zyl Slabbert reacted sharply to the news of an early general election, 18 months ahead of schedule.

National Party officials, pointing to a booming economy and opposition setbacks in by-elections late last year, were confident of overwhelming support from the whites-only voters. The Nationalists had 136 of the 165 seats in the last parliamentary session and have been returned to power six times in a row since 1948.

The resort to early parliamentary elections is a fairly common practice in South Africa. Vorster, as prime minister, followed the same tactics thrice: in 1970, twelve months before the scheduled date, and in 1974 and 1977. Botha has everything to gain from his early election, for there will be no doubt that his National Party — in power since 1948 — will win. It is too early to say whether the tidal wave of 1977 — the "NATS" won 64 per cent of the vote, giving them 134 seats out of 164 — will be repeated. But it is difficult to see how the opposition can endanger the present "NAT" majority.

The liberals seem rather depressed, in fact. The electorate — coloreds (mixed race) and Asians do not have a vote — have no illusions about Botha's intentions to free himself once and for all of his rightwing critics. Ironically, it is the English language press, which openly supports the opposition Progressive Federal Party, that is partly responsible for this state of affairs, as it has never lost an opportunity to stress differences between Botha's Verligtes and Verkrampptes (conservatives).

The State South African Broadcasting Corporation (SABC) and certain daily newspapers such as the Johannesburg-based Beeld have also hammered away at these differences over the past few months.

Recent public opinion polls showed that 60 per cent of the voters more or less fully supported Botha's political reform plans and it is difficult to see how the Progressive Federal Party can organize a win against him. But Botha faces another danger. Certain observers do not exclude a strong challenge from the Herstigte Nasionale Party (HNP) led by Jaap Marais, which is politically on the right of the "NATS". But the HNP at present has no parliamentary seats.

Portillo bids farewell to India

NEW DELHI, Jan. 30 (AP) — President Jose Lopez Portillo of Mexico was given a ceremonial farewell Friday as he departed for home at the end of a six-day state visit to India. A 21-gun salute boomed as Portillo boarded his presidential jetliner after inspecting an honor guard. Indian President Sanjiva Reddy, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and other government leaders were at Delhi airport to bid the Mexican leader farewell.

In a brief speech, Portillo said his visit had "strengthened" relations between the two countries. A joint communique issued Thursday said India and Mexico supported the "independence, sovereignty, territorial integrity and nonaligned status" of Afghanistan, where some 85,000 Soviet troops have been stationed for more than one year. They also expressed opposition to "the instigation of violence from outside with a view to achieving influence or predominance."

OAS Council calls talks by ministers

Jan. 30 (Agencies) — The Organization of American States (OAS) has called for a meeting of ministers to discuss border incidents between Peru and Ecuador, after both countries claimed military aggression by the other.

OAS Council convened the meeting at Ecuador's request to one vote with only Peru opposing it. El Salvador and Guatemala abstained.

The vote, the OAS Council warned Peru and Ecuador against any action that would further aggravate the situation while the Argentinian government, at the United States, Brazil, Argentina and Chile, which helped finalize the Rio de Janeiro treaty that ended a brief but bitter war between the two Latin American neighbors, were holding consultations at the time.

Peru's foreign minister said Peruvian troops were wiping out one of three military outposts established on Peruvian territory. Ecuador claimed the disputed area and invited Peru to negotiate a settlement to their latest border squabble.

Argentinian Minister Javier Arias Stella said that the Ecuadorian military outposts were being "wiped off the map" by Peruvian troops. He gave no details of fighting, but the Peruvian Foreign Ministry said earlier that both sides had suffered unspecified casualties.

Peruvian troops were "dislodging infiltrated Peruvian territory," President Fernando Belaunde Terry told reporters meeting with his military commanders. He said because it would not permit "anybody to unduly penetrate our territory," he would not allow the Peruvian military to enter the Ecuadorian capital of Quito, said government spokesman Fernando Blum said earlier in the remote mountainous border area. The military situation on the border with Peru is stationary, and the rest of Paquisha remains in Ecuadorian hands.

Berlin protesters aggressive; 8 held

BERLIN, Jan. 30 (AP) — Some 250 people took to the streets of West Berlin Friday, throwing stones and shattering windows, to protest a 14-month prison sentence given to a student for participating in a violent street demonstration in December, police reported.

Police said eight persons were arrested and windows in several banks and stores broken and in one case a store was set on fire.

Briton wants English Americanized

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP) — Lord Simon of Glaisdale, one of Britain's top lawyers and a graduate of Cambridge, has urged the unthinkable. He wants to simplify the English language and adopt American spelling — anathema to the scholars who consider English the last great cultural legacy of an empire on which the sun never set.

Apparently taking to heart Winston Churchill's dictum that the Americans and the British are two peoples separated by a common language, Simon proclaimed in the House of Lords Wednesday: "English is a superb language, but it presents one great difficulty — the discrepancy between spelling and pronunciation."

One easy reform, the Conservative peer said, would be to Americanize the language. Purists believe it has already been dangerously infected by U.S.-inspired newspeak, gobbledegook and ghetto street slang.

Britons, the peer said, should spell "honour" without the "U" and drop the second "L" in words like will and full. Englishmen

Nicaraguan embassy hit in bomb attack

SAN SALVADOR, Jan. 30 (AP) — Unidentified gunmen have attacked the Nicaraguan embassy here and a bomb apparently intended for the embassy exploded in the street, causing heavy damage to the front of the building, said a witness on the scene.

The bomb explosion Thursday left a hole four and a half feet deep in the street, knocked down a wall in front of the embassy and damaged a waiting room in the building, the witness said. Trees on the street were set ablaze by the blast and houses on both sides of the embassy were damaged, the witness said.

Several persons in a house across the street were reported injured by the blast, which set fire to the house. Firemen put out the blaze about an hour after the explosion. Red Cross ambulances carried away the injured, but there was no immediate word on how many people were hurt or their condition.

Several embassy guards, who exchanged shots with the attackers before the bomb exploded, were also reported injured. There was no word of what happened to the attackers.

NUCLEAR SHELTERS: Domestic nuclear shelters are now being marketed in the West to provide protection against the effects of nuclear explosions. Picture shows the interior of a do-it-yourself type of shelter with an air intake pump and supplies of food reckoned to be sufficient for one adult for two weeks. These include canned foodstuffs.

Sinking of Java ship Survivors tell tale of woe

JAKARTA, Jan. 30 (AP) — Two children, frightened, pale and tearful, were among passengers of the Tampomas II who stepped from a rescue ship to safety at the harbor of Ujung Paodang in South Sulawesi.

Their eyes scanned the crowds of people jamming the old harbor. They could not find their parents, who were among the 374 people listed as dead or missing in Indonesia's worst maritime disaster, the sinking of a passenger ship that caught fire in the Java Sea recently.

The ill-fated ship, the Tampomas II, was carrying a total of 1,136 people from Indonesia's capital city of Jakarta, in northwest Java, to the south Sulawesi town of Ujung Pandang when the ship caught fire Sunday and finally sank in the Java Sea Tuesday, authorities said.

The girl Juanita Kristiani Arnesesiawati, 9, and her brother, Mewotan Wotutaringe, 6, said they would never forget the tragedy. "That (Sunday) night, during the fire, I was awakened by a lot of noise. We were all disturbed by the confusion," the girl said. She said her father, a plantation worker, began to put a life-vest on, "and we followed our father's action."

The girl said she remembers her father saying, "the ship will never make it." By Monday, she said, the family along with many other passengers jumped overboard to save themselves from the raging fire.

"The waves were very high. We saw our father and mother popping up once in a while in the waves. We called and screamed at the top of our voice and then we saw them no more," she said.

Both the girl and her brother were floating, unconscious, when picked up by a rescue ship. So far a total of 762 people have been rescued.

Leo Tocalu, a crew member of the Tampomas II, told reporters in a stuttering voice: "All I know is that the fire started in the bottom of the ship and all the passengers were told to go up. Only God knows how terrible it was."

Andi Mursalin, a south Sulawesi native who lives in Jakarta, got on the boat with his wife and mother to see his hometown in Ujung Pandang. "When the fire became very high, I knew we did not stand a chance. So my wife, my mother and I jumped into the water," he said.

Soviet stance tough, says U.K. premier

LONDON, Jan. 30 (Agencies) — British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher Thursday night declared she detected no sign of Soviet interest in genuine detente. She declared the new U.S. administration "understood the challenge" and urged the Western allies to follow its lead.

Mrs. Thatcher, dubbed the Iron Lady for her frequent warnings of a Soviet military threat to the West, said the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) must remain purposeful and resolute. "Of course we remain ready to respond to evidence of a real Soviet interest in genuine detente. At present I see none," she said in a speech to an Anglo-American friendship organization, the Pilgrims Society.

"Meanwhile we must maintain our strength. President Reagan and his administration have understood the challenge and the need for leadership. They are responding. We in Europe must also show that we understand the challenge and the need to meet it."

Mrs. Thatcher is due to visit Washington next month to become the first European leader to meet President Reagan since he assumed office. She and the new president are believed to share similar tough views on countering Soviet policies.

The British leader has increased defense spending despite a shrinking economy while her ministers have constantly spoke of growing Soviet military might. Mrs. Thatcher called for close coordination between Western Europe and the U.S. on foreign policy following the alliance's confused reaction to the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan. Arrangement must be kept in perfect working order, she said.

"They did not work well when Afghanistan was invaded, and we must heed that lesson — especially at a time when we are continuing to watch events in and around Poland with anxiety," she said.

Meanwhile, Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky called on the superpowers Thursday to refrain from a policy of strength and warned that "the war of tomorrow will be the end of all things."

Things look differently from Houston than they do from Vienna or Bonn, Kreisky said in reference to United States' political views and reminded the Soviet Union that the process of detente could only be won when it was not interrupted by a "strong hand."

Leicester, Enfield bow out

Kellow nets all three for Exeter

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AFP) — "Cioderella" club Enfield went out of the English FA Cup but were immediately replaced by another — Exeter City, a Third Division side who sensationally knocked out First Division Leicester City by three goals to one in a fourth-round replay at Exeter.

Non-league Enfield were beaten by Second Division Barnsley but the score did not do justice as they had two goals disallowed, but the woodwork three times and gave their Yorkshire team's defense many more hair-raising moments, Wednesday night.

Barnsley, chasing hard for promotion, gave the north London team a lesson in finishing, however, with Trevor Aylott (2) and Ronnie Gla win doing the damage. Barnsley are away to another Yorkshire club, First Division Midlèsbrough, in the eighth finals. Consolation for Enfield was a £25,000 cheque, no less than 35,244 spectators crowding neighboring Tottenham Hotspurs' ground to cheer in their gallant club.

The hero of Exeter's win over Leicester was striker Tony Kellow who got all three goals, one from the penalty spot, against the team who are propping up the First Division. Jim Melrose scored Leicester's only goal.

The match was played at St. James' Park, Exeter, and, by coincidence, the Devoe Club will also play their next match at St. James' Park, this time Newcastle United's ground in the north-east of England.

Greece strengthens qualifying hopes

SALONICA, Greece, Jan. 30 (AP) — Greece beat Luxembourg 2-0 in a European group Five World Cup qualifying soccer match. The win brings Greece level on points with Yugoslavia with four points from three games. Italy retains its lead with eight points from five games. The scorers were Kouslis in the eighth minute and Kostikos in the 38th minute.

The other teams in the Group stand at Denmark two points from four games and Luxembourg no points from four games.

A crowd of 14,000 at the Harilaou Stadium here watched in biting cold as the teams skidded round a pitch which Greek trainer Alketa: Panagoulas called "a skating rink."

Despite the Greek victory, the team seemed unable in the second half of the match to take advantage of the opportunities they had. Their greatest error, according to observers, was playing the ball high.

Four substitutions took place during the game, two on each side. In the first half the Luxembourg number two, Dax was called off the pitch in the 32nd minute and replaced by Bossi, and in the 50th minute Reiter was injured and Hnscheid came on in his place.

At the beginning of the second half Greek coach substituted Delikaris for Kousoulakis, and in the 71st minute Haralambides came on to replace Anastopoulos.

Immediately after the game the Greek coach said that his team could not be completely justified for failing to score more goals, adding that the knowledge that they needed to score "became a source of anxiety in them," breaking the rhythm of their play.

In a match with a large number of fouls against both sides, three Luxembourg players were shown a yellow card by the referee Doinidin of Bulgaria: Philipp, Di Domepico and Zuang.

Division Bristol City thrashed Third Division Carlisle United 5-0 in Bristol, to qualify for what will surely be the toughest match of the next round, away to Nottingham Forest, holders of the European Champions Cup the last two years and determined to win the FA Cup for Brian Clough for the first time.

The Nottingham Forest v Bristol City fifth-round clash gives Boh Houghton and his Swedish goalkeeper, Jan Moller, a chance of revenge, for both were with Swedish Club Malmo when they lost the European Champions Cup final 1-0 to Brian Clough's team two years ago in Munich.

After a drab first half, Bristol City swamped Carlisle in the second, with Kevin Mahhutt and Tom Ritchie getting two goals each and substitute Mimmy Mann notching the fifth.

It was probably Ritchie's last game for City, for he is expected to join Sunderland Thursday in a £200,000 transfer. "I'm not exactly jumping for joy at the prospect of losing Ritchie but the club needs the money," said a sad Houghton.

Meanwhile, holders Gor Mahia of Kenya won through to the final of the Eighth East and Central Africa Soccer Clubs' Championship when they beat Zambia's Kabwe Warriors 2-1 after extra-time in the second semi-final Thursday night.

Gor Mahia led 1-0 at half time and after 90 minutes the score was level at 1-1. Scorers: Gor Mahia — Nahashon Olouch (43rd minute), Bob Ogolla (extra-time). Warriors — Moses Banda (81st minute). Gor Mahia's opponents in the final will be Simba Sports Club of Tanzania.

In Bonn, Bayer Uerdingen beat Borussia Dortmund 2-1 in a West German First Division match.

While in Nagoya, Poland beat Japan 4-1 they led 3-1 at half time. It was the Poles' third victory on their current visit. The fourth and final match will be played on Sunday.

Hadlee bowls New Zealand to victory

SYDNEY, Jan. 30 (AP) — Controversial Kiwi fast bowler Richard Hadlee who could not comb his hair 24 hours beforehand bundled out Australia for 155 in the World Series Cup Cricket match at the Sydney Cricket Ground Thursday night.

Hadlee has been carrying an injury to his right shoulder and he struggled through a times test Thursday morning before the game. He took five for 26 from 8.3 overs including four maidens as Australia floundered and collapsed for 155 chasing New Zealand's 233 for six.

New Zealand are now one-up in the first of five Cup finals. The Cup will go to the side taking three wins in five games.

Sitting in the dressing room after the game with an ice pack on his right shoulder Hadlee said: "If the game had been on last night I would not have been playing."

The Australian destroyer said that New Zealand had been a better all round side.

"Cairns had freshened up the wicket and I was able to work up rhythm I was due for a few breaks anyway."

"Not one of our best," said a restrained Australian captain Greg Chappell after the game. "Our fielding left a lot to be desired, New Zealand got the breaks and made the most of them and we would have to play a pretty well to get 233."

Chappell said Australia needed a good start. "You can't do that in any game — one-day or otherwise — when you lose four for 28."

Australia won the toss, sent New Zealand in, and opens John Wright and Bruce Edgar set the Kiwis on the road to victory with a sound stand of 45.

Wright top-scored for New Zealand with a patient 81 made in 167 minutes with only three boundaries coming his way because of the slow outfield. Skipper Geoff Howarth gave Wright great support with a bright 47.

Jeff Moss hits unbeaten century

MELBOURNE, Jan. 30 (AP) — Victorian Jeff Moss, fighting to impress the Australian selectors, scored an unbeaten century against India: on the first day of the four-day match at Kardinya Park in Geelong north-west of here Friday.

Victorian captain Richie Robinson declared his first innings closed at 267 for 7 wickets, leaving India 22 minutes to bat before the close in which they scored 16 for loss of Srinivasan's wicket.

Moss defied the Indian attack for 287 minutes for his 125.

Robinson elected to bat on a pitch with more than a little moisture in it and must have nudged the decision when, with the score at 34, Gary Watts fell victim to Roger Binny for 16.

The Victorian captain's despair quickly deepened when Graham Yallop was dismissed for a duck in the same over. That brought Moss in to join Julien Wiener and the pair took the score to 73 before Wiener was caught by Bharath Reddy off the bowling of Kirri Azad for 29.

Canadian swimmers excel

WELLINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP) — American sprint star Les Barczewski admitted he rode Italian Octavia Dazzan off the track at the New Zealand Games cycling on Friday. "I admit it. I rode him off the track. I should have been disqualified," he said.

In a controversial best-of-three sprint quarter-final, Barczewski downed the Italian — eighth in the Moscow Olympics sprint final — two wins to one.

The American, who trains full-time for cycling at the U.S. Olympic camp, said afterwards: "the Italians are very tactical and very rough."

In the first race of the series, Dazzan tangled with the bespectacled Barczewski. Starting to wind up 200 meters from home, Dazzan went down the track and under the American. "I had him blocked but he came under me and on to the boards (off the track). I did ride him off the track."

Meanwhile, at the swimming events in Christchurch, Canada continued its winning way with three golds on Friday to take its gold plaque total to eight.

Alex Baumann, a 16-year-old from Sunbury, Ontario, took his personal gold total to three with Friday's victory in the 400m freestyle from Queenslanders Gary Watson and Sydney's Craig Riddington.

Baumann swept fast Watson two laps from home to win comfortably in 4:00.08. Baumann earlier won the 200 meters individual medley and the 200 backstroke.

Lisa Borsholt, from Vancouver, took the breaststroke double in 1:14.36 from American Kim Rhodenbaugh and West German Angelika Knipping.

Victory Davis, 16-year-old oswowner to international swimming from Guelph, Ontario, also took the breaststroke double, swimming the 100m event in 1:06.10 from Swede Peter Beergren and New Zealand's Mark Kalaugher.

Davis Thursday pounced on Queenslanders Linsay Spencer in the final lap to take the 200m event.

The Americans won their fourth gold plaque when their women's 4x100m freestyle relay team won in 3:54.32 from Canada and the Australian team of Susie Baumer, Diana Watts, Lisa Forrest and Susan Miller.

Australia is being tipped as the dominant nation in the fourth Pacific Conference Games, which begins at II Park here on Saturday.

Spearheaded by a new crop of outstanding junior talent, Australia's 41 athletes have the benefit of competing in their season with the resulting fitness edge over Canada, Japan, New Zealand and the United States.

Many of the country's blossoming teenage stars will get their first taste of international athletics in the two-day meet, which has as its main attractions two world record holders and two Olympic champions.

The likely withdrawal of Scotland's Allan Wells, the Olympic 100m champion and 200m silver medalist, gives Wollongong's 19-year-old Peter Gandy and 23-year-old Adelaide dental student Bruce Frayne undeniable claims in both sprints.

Wells is frustrated by strained vertebrae muscle and will make a firm decision on whether he competes in Saturday's 100 meters on the morning of the meet.

Gandy is a rising sprint star who flashed home behind Wells in last year's Games in Sydney and last weekend again filled second spot in 10.38 seconds.

Hilal trounces Jabalein

By Munir Muhammad Ali

JEDDAH, Jan. 30 (SPA) — In the pre-final matches of the National Football League, Hilal defeated Jabalein 4-1 in Riyadh Thursday. Hilal tried to score as many goals as possible before playing the final against leaders Nasr who have a two-point advantage.

Hilal began briskly with the aim of an early goal. But haste proved their undoing and with time passing quickly Hilal was reminded of the draw in their previous match in the league. However, in 16th minute Sultan ibn Nassih gave them the lead from a pass by Brazilian Dieh.

Two minutes later, Hilal's defense lapsed while back-passing the ball to goalie Ibrahim Al-Yusuf. Jabalein's Mirat Al-Diran snatched the ball and directed it easily. Before the end of the first half, Hilal boosted its lead with a goal by Dieh.

The Brazilian scored his team's third goal in the 77th minute from a pass by Musalbeeh. The fourth came three minutes from the end through Khaled Al-Ghanim. Hilal is now even with Nasr in goals pending Friday's game of the latter against Riyadh. Nasr will, no doubt, try to score a number of goals that entitles it the league shield even if it loses to Hilal in next week's final.

Other matches of the 17th week of the league include Itihad's encounter with Qadisiyya and Ahl's matches against Ititfaq. Both matches are to be played in Dammam.

Thursday, Nahda escaped a defeat from Shabah when it equalized in the dying minutes of the match. The game, played in Dammam, ended in a 1-1 tie. Shabah's goal came from a penalty by Qubantini, a Tunisian, in the 13th minute. Matar Al-Jawhar equalized for Nahda.

Bulls given a thrashing

Bulls record sixth win in row

YORK, Jan. 30 (AP) — The Boston Celtics finally got bounced after 14 games, as they weren't let down easily by the Bulls, either.

"I was disappointed is the underdog of the year," said Boston coach Bill Fitch. "I use the words I would like to use in newspapers. It's too bad we don't get other practice before the all-star game because I'd probably make them work a ball."

The Celtics, who had won 25 of their last 28, suffered their worst loss of the season as the Bulls won their sixth straight game to reach the 500 mark, at 27-27, right after his weekend's all-star game in Richmond.

After NBA action, it was Golden State that led 112; Cleveland 115, Phoenix 107, New York 114, Atlanta 111; San Antonio 122, New Jersey 108; Utah 99, Denver 131, Milwaukee 118; Los Angeles 108, San Diego 106, and Los Angeles 118, Kansas City 104.

Los Angeles 117, Pistons 112; Bernard King, Joe and Joe Barry Carroll accounted for points as Golden State rebounded to an 18-point deficit to beat Detroit. King and both wound up with 30 points while King had 28 to enable the Warriors to snap their losing streak and send the Houston Rockets down to their 42nd defeat and their 115. Sons 111; Mike Mitchell and Roger Phegley each scored 27 points and Keony Carr collected 26 points and 18 rebounds to lead Cleveland over Phoenix.

Knicks 114, Hawks 111; Ray Williams scored 15 points during a 40-point New York first quarter and the Knicks went on to a tight victory over Atlanta. Williams finished with a team-high 24 points as the Knicks broke a three-game losing streak and posted their first victory in Atlanta since December 1977.

Spurs 122, Nets 108; George Gervin scored 26 points, James Silas added 24. Mark Olberding chipped in with 21 as San Antonio defeated New Jersey. The Victory ran San Antonio's home winning streak to 12 games, tying a club mark dating back to 1968 in Dallas.

Jazz 99, Rockets 97; Adrian Dantley scored 37 points and teammates Ben Poquette and Riekey Green sparked a fourth-quarter comeback to help Utah beat Houston.

Nuggets 131, Bucks 118; Reserves Kiki Vandeweghe, Dave Robisch and Billy McKinney combined for 50 points as Denver whipped Milwaukee. The victory marked the second time this season that the Nuggets have strung together three victories.

Trail Blazers 108, Clippers 106; Kelvin Ransey's 10-foot jump shot with one second to play lifted Portland over San Diego. Ransey, a rookie guard from Ohio State, took an inbounds pass from guard Jim Paxson with 11 seconds remaining and dribbled the ball for nearly 10 seconds before shooting.

Lakers 118, Kings 104; Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 35 points and moved into second place on the all-time NBA field goal list as Los Angeles beat Kansas City.

Higgins storms into last four

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AFP) — Northern Ireland's Alex Higgins stormed into the semi-finals of the £20,000 Masters snooker tournament thrashing Welshman Doug Mountjoy 61-37, 51-63, 110-6, 81-4, 72-37 and 101-8 Thursday.

Although the 31-year old Higgins was in a magnificent form, he was, however, aided by some uncharacteristic errors by Welsh champion.

In Saturday's semi-finals, Higgins will meet the winner of the match between world champion Cliff Thorburn of Canada and Perrie Mans of South Africa.

CALLS IT A DAY: Former world motor racing champion Emerson Fittipaldi, seen geared up in the 1972 race in Mosport Canada, announced his retirement Thursday. The 34-year old champ, said that the Fittipaldi team would compete in the 1981 Grand Prix with drivers Keijo Rosenberg of Finland and Francisco 'Cheo' Serra of Brazil.

Unlucky Therier forced to drop out
Frenchman wins in tenth attempt

MONTE CARLO, Jan. 30 (Agoecies) — Frenchman Jean Ragnotti won the 49th Monte Carlo Rally Friday after Jean-Luc Therier, the overnight leader, skidded into a ravine and out of the race.

Ragnotti, in second place at the start of the final day's eight speed tests, took full advantage and drove his Renault five Turbo to victory by a margin of two minutes 45 seconds ahead of another Frenchman, Guy Freguelin in a Talbot Lotus.

Therier, who had been leading by over three minutes, suffered a cracked suspension after hitting a patch of snow. Ragnotti said afterwards he had been pleased by the Renault's behavior on snow but disappointed by its performance on dry roads.

West German Klaus Kiehl finished third, six minutes 59 seconds behind Freguelin, in an Opel Ascona. Finn Hannu Mikkola, who led during the first stage, had been widely expected to win the 49th rally.

Mikkola's four-wheel-drive Audi Quattro raced into an early lead in icy roads but steering trouble forced him well back during the second stage after he skidded into a bridge.

Ragnotti, 35, was French Rally champion last year. He won the tourist category of the Monte Carlo in an Opel Kadett in 1970 and has taken part in the Rally every year since. He came second in 1978 in a Renault five alpine.

The 35-year-old Ragnotti and his co-driver Jean-Marc Andrie, swept into the lead after the first of the night's special stages at the Oiffw pass when the Porsche of compatriots Jean-Luc Therier and Michel Vial crashed. Therier, a burly Normandy garage owner, had shocked the major works teams when he brought his privately-prepared Porsche in from the marathon common run holding an overall lead of more than three minutes.

But as he roared on racing tyres into the 33 kms first stage, which was lined by more than 25,000 spectators, he hit a snow patch, spun and smashed into a bridge. The snow had been packed there by spectators and although the Porsche limped on for about a mile, it finally shuddered to a halt. Therier's rally was over.

The usually jovial Therier did not disguise his contempt for those responsible. "They are little shorts of criminals," he said.

"To pack the road with snow in order to make cars skid is not only cheap, it is dangerous. I know it is difficult, but organisers should do something. Every year it is the same thing at the Turini."

Once in front, Ragnotti a close friend of Therier, made no mistakes and slapped back the game but uneven challenge of the second British Talbot Lotus of compatriots Guy Freguelin and Jean Todt.

It was typical that Jean Ragnotti's first words after winning should be to praise his friend and opponent Jean-Luc Therier.

The young contender for the £6,000 first prize moved into a 59-4 lead in the decisive frame but then a slip on the final red allowed his experienced opponent back into the match.

Davis seized his chance with a winning break of 64 — the highest of the match.

Stevens said: "I was in two minds on that last red and I was fighting with myself as I played it." Davis was sympathetic and said: "He was unlucky to lose it to the end, as I needed to get every ball down in that final frame."

Bidding Quiz

You have the following hand:
♠K94 ♥Q82 ○A85 ♣KQJ6

What would you respond if partner opened the bidding with:

1. One diamond.
2. One spade.
3. One notrump.
4. Two hearts.

1. Two notrump. This is by far the best way to represent both your balanced distribution and high-card values (15 points). The heart stopper is tenuous, but two notrump is nonetheless a standout response because it describes your hand perfectly with one stroke of the brush.

2. Two clubs. Here, with game in spades a distinct possibility, you should reject two notrump, despite its accurate description of your distribution and high-card values. The distinction between this case and the previous one is narrow, but nevertheless real. Here your partner opened the bidding in a major suit, and there your partner opened the bidding in a minor suit.

Major suit games are generally much preferred to notrump games, when both are viable, and it is therefore best to try to increase your chances of eventually reaching the spade game by making the temporizing response of two clubs.

3. Four notrump. This has nothing to do with Blackwood; it merely suggests the possibility of a slam if partner has maximum values for his opening bid. Thus, if partner has 18 points you belong in a slam and he will bid it—knowing that you have guaranteed 15 points by your raise to four notrump. If he has 16 or 17 points, he will in most cases pass.

4. Three hearts. You can feel sure of a small slam, once partner opens with a game-forcing bid, and the only problem is how best to explore a possible grand slam. The waiting game is best with this type of hand, since you still don't know the nature of partner's two-bid and should give him a chance to show whether his opening bid was based on an abundance of high cards, extraordinary distribution, or a combination of both.

What you do next depends on how partner responds to three hearts. He may use Blackwood, he may introduce a new suit, or he may simply bid four hearts. In any case, you shouldn't dream of stopping short of six.
